IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear husband, Otho W. Martin, Sr., who departed this life Oct. 26, 1956.

I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own,
Day by day I miss you more
As I walk through life alone.
—Sadly missed by wife,
Mrs. Lula Martin.

In loving remembrance of our dear father, Otho W. Martin, Sr., who died two years ago, Oct. 26th.

We seem to see in the soft dim light
A face we loved the best,
And think of him when the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far-off west.

We miss you no less as the time passes on
Than we did on the day of your going,
For absence can never close the door of our heart
And the lamp of our love is still glowing.

Your heart was the truest in all the wide world,
Your love the best to recall,
For no one can take your place,
You are still the dearest of all.
—Sadly missed by Children.

APPOMATTOX'S 'FIRST LADY' NOW 97 YEARS OLD

Charles Henry Coleman were married on October 24, 1906.

"Miss Eddie" settled down at the Coleman home. He tilled the soil, attended the re-unions, and they passed happy years. The writer recalls him doing a 'jig dance' when he was well up in the 90's. He boasted to me one day that he never needed "a doctor, lawyer or dentist." And it is traditional in old Appomattox County that "the Colemans, Martins and Moore have more 'kinfolks' than anybody!" And so they come to see "Miss Eddie."

Like last Saturday, for example. That was her birthday. And they all came, cut the cake, and the small fry gathered around and romped, and then came into her room for a hug.

"Miss Eddie" does not travel about, but she keeps up with things. She does not think a thing of the way young girls go about with these 'shorts' and wearing jeans.

She is not too concerned about the automobiles. But she does own a horse. That would be "Lady." This horse, she says, can work anywhere, and although well along in years, Lady has a home on the Coleman estate.

She lives with Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Coleman. He is her step-son. Mrs. Irene Rogers, a step-daughter was with her, too. Other step-children are Branch Coleman, Mrs. India Scott and Mrs. Clarence Moore.

On the mantel in "Miss Eddie's" room, we noted a large picture of "Lee and His Generals."

But we didn't see a Confederate Flag. We asked about that. She admitted that they had had many, but they had been given away and just disappeared. We took care of that this morning. We mailed her a small Confederate Flag. We hope she will place it upon the wall in her room.

In these trying days and vexing hours, it is heart-warming to know that we do indeed have ties with a glorious past. The words of wisdom endured and if followed, will inspire us to place courage against adversity, to interpose honor against defeat, and somehow, by a Divine will, gain yet the maintenance of a militant South and an unforgetable Old Virginia.

I was leaving "Miss Eddie's room when she called me back.

She said she wanted to "hug me." And she did.

I suspect she does that to all the boys! But, it made me choke up, and I will not forget this old and dear friend, and when she gets to be 100, I will try to write it up better — the best for "First Lady of Old Appomattox."
